DUBLIN CONVENTION BUREAU

Dublin is Ireland's capital city, and home to the country's largest airport. It's serviced by over 170 different direct flights, and an only hour flight from most cities in the UK. Once you arrive, Dublin is a walkable and friendly city that's so easy to navigate.

Dublin is a unique once in a life time destination, with everything from 5* castles to modern corporate hotels. There are over 20,000 hotel room bed stock, with multiple new hotels set to come online in the coming months and years, as well as scheduled refurbishments across many current hotels.

As part of the Emerald Isle, being environmentally green is a top priority. Dublin is a proud member the Global Destination Sustainability Index, as the first Irish city to join back in 2017. Since then Dublin has climbed 16 places, and is currently the highest Irish ranking destination at 11th place. As well as that, Meet In Ireland as the official business tourism brand for the island of Ireland, won best improved destination in 2019 to recognise the nationwide effort to look after our planet.

If you're looking for a meeting with a difference, there is also a corporate social responsibility programme to connect your delegates into the local community with holistic and meaningful experiences.

In terms of support, Dublin Convention Bureau is a free service here to help you and your delegates have your most memorable visit yet. Enjoy a complimentary venue and accommodation search, as well as introductions to key industry members such as a local DMC, site inspection hosting and a have a grant available to financially support your meeting.
