LOVCEN NATIONAL PARK

Adrenaline rush

Lovcen national park occupies a special place in the hearts of all Montenegrins. For most of its history it represented the entire nation – a rocky island of Slavic resistance in an Ottoman sea. Two-thirds of the national park's 6220 hectares are covered in woods, particularly the black beech that gives it its moody complexion. The park is home to various types of reptile, 85 species of butterfly and large mammals such as brown bears and wolves. The 200 avian species found here include regal birds of prey such as the peregrine falcon, golden eagle and imperial eagle .

The mountains are criss-crossed with hiking paths and mountain-biking trails. Good to know to come prepared as the temperature is on average 10°C cooler than on the coast.

NJEGOSH MAUSOLEUM

Njegosh mausoleum, situated at 1657 m above the sea, on the second highest peak of Lovcen mountain, represents one of the MUST VISIT places and attractions.

461 steps lead to this magnificent mausoleum, tomb of Montenegrin prince-bishop, poet and philosopher Petar Petrovic II Njegos. Inside the mausoleum, under a golden mosaic, you will find grandiose sculpture of Njegos, created by famous sculptor Ivan Mestrovic. WE RUN DMC

CETINJE – THE FIRST CAPITAL OF MONTENEGRO

It may seem to you that Cetinje fell into the deep sleep, but it just rests after its long turbulent past, which began in the 15th century. In order to protect its folk of the Otoman invasion and preserve the orthodox religion and culture, the great emperor Ivan Crnojevic left the fertile area of Skadar lake and found the shelter in the raw area of Lovcen Mount. Having built his palace, he founded the new seat of the old Montenegro, the town of Cetinje.

In the center of the town, you will see the bequest of the most important Montenegrins, Petrovic Dynasty, which ruled the country over 200 years: Biljarda - residence of the bishop, writer and philosopher Petar II Petrovic Njegos, King Nikola's Palace, Monastery of Cetinje... Montenegro was in that time constantly struggling against Turks for the independence of their homeland and finally gained it at the end of the 19th century and attracted various European countries to open their embassies in this small town.

DINNER RESTAURANT ,ONE' PORTO MONTENEGRO

Holding a spacious indoor-outdoor terrace that's pushed against a backdrop of crystal clear waters and bobbing superyachts, ONE Restaurant and bar delivers the quintessential Porto Montenegro dining experience. On a typical day, the patio is filled with the sounds of English, French, Italian, German and Russian chatter over the clink of cocktail glasses and silverware. Attracting yachties, expats and stylish clientele from around the world, the elegant menu places a heavy emphasis on local and seasonal fare with delicious seafood dishes and global favorites not enjoyed elsewhere in the region. The carefully selected wine list is one of the most impressive in all of Montenegro, whereas the spectacular space provides the ideal setting for brunch, sunset drinks and romantic dinners.

BOKA BAY

Often referred to as the southernmost fjord in Europe, the Boka Bay is in fact a drowned river canyon. The high mountains that bend around the coastline protect the bay from the open sea and from the cold climate of the north in winter. This allows an abundance of Mediterranean vegetation to grow: agave, palm, mimosa, oleander, kiwi, pomegranate and medicinal herbs can all flourish in these temperatures. Combination of calm sea and beautiful mountains will take your breath away.

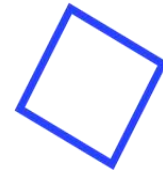

EXPLORING BOKA BAY BY SPEED BOATS EXAMPLES

WE RUN DMC

EXPLORING THE OLD TOWN OF KOTOR

Walking city tour of the Old Town of Kotor will give you a great introduction to this UNESCO World Heritage Site.

Kotor is situated in the most secluded part of the Bay of Kotor. While it dates from the Illyrian period, Kotor developed into an important commercial and artistic center in the Middle Ages. Many empires battled for control over the city throughout the centuries: from being an autonomous city of the Byzantine Empire, free city of medieval Serbia, then under Venetian or Hungarian states, gaining independence and then returned to Venetian control once again, just to be occupied by France and then Austria, until Kotor finally became part of Yugoslavia. The tour will take you inside the city gates, and you will visit: the Square of Arms, Clock Tower, St Tryphon Cathedral,

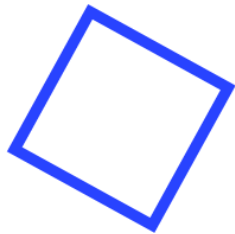

OUR LADY OF THE ROCKS

Our Lady of the Rock lies about 115 m (377 feet) northeast of the island of St. George. The stone plateau in the middle of the sea with a church on it is the result of the enduring efforts of generations of mariners "... to leave there, in the very heart of the Bay of Boka Kotorska, a testimony of their Christian faith and culture..."

The island was built artificially by scuttling old ships and depositing stones around a small crag. The name of the island derived from the word "skrpjel" – an old word for a crag. The construction of a sanctuary began in the first century of the Venetian rule. The sanctuary was dedicated to the Assumption of the Virgin because this cult (Assunzione della Vergine) was greatly venerated by the Venetians.

The story of Savina winery is really a story of an estate, of a monastery and of the owners family.

At the entrance to the Bay of Kotor, by Savina Monastery, sun-soaked vineyards are today bearing fruit much like they did back in the 18th century. The wines are characterized by a light and breezy, summer style. This is true for the Chardonnay and Rose, but even for red wines which are nurtured by the family Obradovic, owners of the winery. The legacy of the monastery is more 350 years old, and the land has been always suitable for grapes that grew on it.

The vineyard spreads it self into two hectares and has international grape varietals (Shiraz, Merlot, Cabernet Sauvignon, Grenache, Chardonnay) and one indigenous white varietal, Žižak (zhizhak), similar to Dubrovnik's Malvasia (as opposed to the Istrian one). The vineyards are located in the best part of the estate, with southern exposition, with a spectacular view over the sea.
